Survival of the Fittest: Environmental Ethics & The Plant Theory

JANINE WEAVER DOUGLAS, ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR, RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

In this presentation, we explore the concept of environmental ethics in the context of how we recruit, select, train and develop leaders, via the Plant Theory.

Navigating Difficult Decisions

JOSHUA WELCH, DIRECTOR OF GREEK LIFE
ANNE CARLSON WELCH, ASSISTANT TO THE VICE PRESIDENT FOR STUDENT AFFAIRS

By examining the Decision Making Framework we can better understand the process of making a decision, reduce or lessen the frustration that comes with decision making and increase behaviors that help us make sound decisions.

Leading with Integrity & Accountability

NICOLE MCCONNELL, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES
MACKENZIE WHITE, GRADUATE RESIDENT FOR RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS & SERVICES

What does it mean to lead with integrity and hold peers accountable? Come learn how to lead others with integrity and gain strategies for creating a culture of accountability amongst yourself and your peers so that you can create a positive working environment wherever you are!

Integrating Peer Mentoring and Wellness Skill-Building for Lasting Change

MOLLY DUNN, PEER MENTOR COORDINATOR

Working with a peer mentor has been shown to improve college students’ self-efficacy and sense of belongingness. In this presentation, participants will explore the content of Wellness Workshops. Participants will also participate in an example workshop activity.

Learning While Earning: Leveraging Student Employment for Career Success

TORREZ WILSON, CONFERENCE & PROGRAM SERVICES, GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY
WILLIAM GUY, SENIOR EVENT SERVICES SPECIALIST, GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY

Building a Community that Builds Without You
JEFFERY JOHN, LEAD DIRECTOR UGAHACKS 7 AND UGAHACKS 8
Acting as a yearly organization leaves long gaps of time where our target community is isolated from our organizers, and so it’s a strong priority for us to serve as a catalyst for a community that continues without us, until our next event. During this presentation, participants will gain insight into branding, passive and active engagement strategies, collaborative ideas, and cultural perspectives from event interviews.

Quality over Quantity: Building the extraordinary teams you want with the resources you already have
MAGGIE FITZSIMMONS, COORDINATOR FOR FACILITIES
COURTNEY BROWN, COORDINATOR FOR FACILITIES
Knowing yourself, your team, and how to navigate the world around you leads to extraordinary results. Explore the ways you can make an impact as a leader with the resources you already have with the teams around you.

Fundraising Fundamentals: Developing and Communicating Your “Why”
SARAH URBANSKI, GRADUATE ASSISTANT FOR STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION
During this presentation, participants will develop their “why” statements and learn how to translate that message into funds raised. Whether you’re fundraising to support your organization or to support a charity partner, these best practices will help your organization grow your next fundraiser.

Inclusive Leadership: Driving Organizational Performance through Diversity
KARIS HILL, SENIOR COORDINATOR OF LEADERSHIP
Leadership in the 21st century demands organizations to optimize diversity by leveraging the power of inclusion. By prioritizing diversity and inclusion your team will be able to perform better and develop innovative strategies for engagement. This interactive presentation will give participants tips on how to become an inclusive leader.

Written in the Stars: Charting Your Relationship to Leadership
ALEXANDRA MASTORAKIS, GRADUATE ASSISTANT FOR STUDENT ACTIVITIES
NICHOLAS TROTTER, GRADUATE ASSISTANT FOR ARCH SOCIETY
Self-awareness is a major part of developing one’s identity as a leader and teammate. Using the guiding analogy of natal charts and the zodiac, participants will learn more about the relationship between self-assessments and self awareness, as well as how they relate to the development of one’s personal leadership philosophy.
VIRTUAL PRESENTATIONS

MARCH 16
7PM

DOs and DON'Ts of Virtual Programming
NOAH BAKER, SENIOR COORDINATOR OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES
This presentation is designed for anyone wanting to learn more about providing campus programs in a virtual space, the various tools that can be used for online programming, and some of the lessons that we have learned from programming during COVID-19 protocol.

Dismantling Dysfunction to Build Better Teams
JACKIE PHILLIPS, SENIOR COORDINATOR OF STUDENT ENGAGEMENT
This presentation will provide an overview of Patrick Lencioni’s The Five Dysfunctions of a Team and discuss why teams fail to work together for the collective good of an organization. This session will discuss strategies for helping teams overcome these problems and provide real-life examples and group discussions.

Battling “Bossy”: How Women Can Take Control of Their Leadership Journey
ABBI FLAGG, GRADUATE ASSISTANT FOR LEADERSHIP
Despite now making up the majority of the undergraduate population, women continue to be underrepresented in leadership across most professional and academic fields. In this session, participants will discuss the systemic barriers preventing access to leadership opportunities, the value of diverse leadership teams, and how they can practice agency in their leadership development as students.

Leaving your Legacy: Succession Planning & Transition Tips
LORI CRAWFORD, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF LEADERSHIP
Does your organization find itself “reinventing the wheel” time and time again? Set your organization up for success by creating a transition plan that includes a shared vision and opportunities to cultivate leadership in others along the way. Participants will be introduced to resources including a sample transition meeting agenda, transition checklist, and SOAR analysis exercise.
